HONDRONG, TURADAY, MARCH 1, 1892.

The numerous seizures of sick cattle and of diseased carosses which have of late been made at Kowloon ought to have the effect of awakening the authorities to what seems to be a disgraceful state of affairs existing in that part of the Colony with regard to the food supply. So many prosecutions have been made before the Police Magia rate recently that it is impossible for the Government to plead ignorance of the matter. It is evident, prima facio, that frequent efforts are being made to supply our market with di-Professor Victor Vale. sessed meat, wholly unfit and unsafe for human food, and whilst some of these attempts have been frustrated it is not commany cases have recognized undetected, and that some quaulity of meat-whether large or amail we cannot say -- has found its way into the market and been disposed of as wholesome food. On this side of the water certain precautions are taken which ought to prevent any such offence. The Government Inspector visite the market daily, and with the establishment of a Cattle Depot, and a system of stamping to certify the soundbess of any animal passing through able to detect the different forms of dilease to which sattle are liable, there ought to be no danger whatever. The same system, however, does not obtain on the Kowloon side. There is no cattle depôt there, and only occasional visits by on impector are made and it would appear that the Chinese cattle dealers, taking advantage of the lack of efficient supervision, smuggle diseased cattle into British Kowloon when an opportunity can be found. There is more than a suspicion that in order to facilitate their business they themselves put the impector's mark on the cattle. The traffic in diseased animals seems indeed to have become a special (and no doubt lucrative) branch of the to supply the best growths at moderate cattle-dealing business, one of the peculiarities of which is that the seller gets a first price per head amounting to what would wanted, and initial letter for quality desired. be about the value of the hide of the animal, and an additional sum in the event of Case. Per Bot. the dealer getting it disposed of as healthy and fit for human food. It goes without saying that the Chinese dealer will, in 1.10 these circumstances, do all he possibly can to enable the foreign community to feed 1.25 on bad beef; and as the ordinary consumer, when a piece of meat comes before him in a pooked state, is totally unable, even by the most critical examination of it, to detect anthrax or pneumonia or any of the other ills that bovine flesh is heir to, he is practically at the mercy of the unscrupulous dealer. The law already provides for the establishment of a depot where cattle could be kept under observation for a few days, and for the killing and burying of animals in which any sign of disease should develop; but there are no means at present for carrying out these very necessary provisions of the law. Inspector Hanson of the Koyloon district has been the means of bringing several of the diseased mest-dealets to justice, and the an batantial fines imposed by Mr Wisa ought to have the effect of checking the obnoxious and dangerous traffic to some extent at least, but it takes a great deal to make a Chinaman give up a profitable hosiness, however illegal it may be; and besides, the detection of disease either in cattle before they are killed or in the meat Case. Per Bot. | afterwards, when it is exposed for sale, is not a matter that should be left to the police; for even if the atmost vigilance on the part of the police could be relied on, they are not competent to do the work, and it is of far too great importance to the health of the community to be left in the hands of those who cannot do it thoroughly

She had emptied her water tanks, as you may have heard, and had drawn as near as practicable to the wreck, whom a fierce north blow set in and cansed her to make for shelter with all speed. Without ballast, and in such a sea the danger was all too imminent. She reached a place of seeming safety but was fast harrying on to a roof which would have proved certain destruction to her, when the gentleman montioned (Messrs. Farnham & Co,'s Agent), altogether unaided picked up the anchor and dropped it overboard. It held; the ship was saved. His hands stuck to the cold iron, the from was so severe, and as the anchor left his hands the skin-was completely pecked off. What between the salt spray and the bitting frost after that, his hands must have been in a bad state. I noticed that he had them well wrapped up to-day.

-NOTES FROM NATIVE PAPERS. Li Kuel chlon, the alleged Kolao mem-The Government Surveyor should be her who was arrested in the city of Shangmade independent of the Harbour-master had and taken to Nanking, underwent his first exmination on the 17th Feb. The Court was composed of two prefects and three magistrates; and the examination was held in the gamen of the Nanking district magistrate. Li Kuel-chien deposed that Rules made by people influenced by a he always lived a retired life, never interfering with anything not concerning himself. As to whother Li Hung was a Kolao leader or whether he had anything to de with purchasing arms and ammunition, the prisoner denied knowing anything whatever. In reply to the question as to how his logs were fractured, the second said that they had been broken by Shanghai yamen runners with an iron rod. The Court then told the prisoner that he had all along been committing many aniawful note, that his father in consequence had disnyned him, that it was only natural to infor that he, being such a bad character, might have joined the society and that he had better confess the truth. Li in quewer stated that he lost the love of his perents by a fondness for fast society, spending a great deal of money, gambling and living a debauched life, but that, boyond these sing, he had no others, much less that of becoming a Koluo. He hoped the court would soon, by investigation, learn his inpoocuce. He was remanded in the inner apartment of the prison formerly occupled: by Wan Sung-ting, who was removed to the outer apartment, to provent any communication between the two prisoners. Two days afterwards another examination was beld, but Li adhered to his provious Statements without variance or addition.

The Taotal and the two deputies from the Nanking Viceroy held another examination, with the magistrate, on Sanday night of the alleged Kolao member, Ohen Chi huai. The prisoner showed the greatest possible obstinacy, and though placed in a kneeling posture on coils of chains and stretched on a bare pole he simply exclaimed that he was innocent. Then 500 blows with the rattan were given, after which he was made to inhale the smoke from a roll of burning paper placed under his nostrils. All this did not, however, elicit anything further from him. He was again remanded. In one of the right lodging-houses in Nanking Road a woman attempted to commit suicide by swallowing raw opinm, and her puramour by outting his throat. When the police arrived on the scene the woman. showed signs of life and was promptly removed to the hospital; but the man was beyond all earthly aid. An inquest will probably to hold. A Peking woman gave hirth to two pairs of twins-two bovs and two girls. Her mother in law rathined the two male babies and gave away the two female, as she was too poor to keep and feed them all.
